4. E-mail, George R. Price - George Price [dxn3572@blackfoot.net], Sampson Dunbar died August 15, 1804, and was listed as "black" in the death record (FHL microfilm #0932776, "Stoughton births, marriages, and deaths, 1717-1860", item 3, page 14). In most records Sampson was referred to as a "mulatto", and sometimes no racial designation was given, which was usually the case for "white" persons. It was not at all unusual for persons of mixed race to be referred to by different racial labels for the same person on different records. Indians or mixed Afro-Indians were often referred to as "mulattoes", "negroes", and even as "blacks" in early Massachusetts records. Frequent intermarriage between Afro-Americans and American Indians in the 17th through 19th centuries in Massachusetts was due largely to what historian Daniel Mandell called a "complimentary gender imbalance"- a surplus of Afro males complemented by a surplus of Indian women due to more male Africans being enslaved than females, and Indian males being killed, captured and sold into Caribbean slavery during the colonial era Indian wars. (See, Mandell, Daniel R. "Shifting Boundaries of Race and Ethnicity: Indian-Black Intermarriage in Southern New England, 1760-1880", Journal of American History, September, 1998). An excellent book that deals with the topic of racial labelling of mixed black, Indian, and white people in the colonial era is Forbes, Jack D. Africans and Native Americans: The Language of Race and the Evolution of Red-Black Peoples (Chicago, University of Illinois Press, 1993).

8. E-mail, George Price [dxn3572@blackfoot.net], Patience Crouch was baptized Nov. 5, 1732, by Rev. Shearjashub Bourn, in a Congregational church in Scituate, Massachusetts. Her mother's name was Mary. (FHL microfilm # 0496902, "Vital Records of Scituate, Massachusetts, 1633-1850, births, pg.99, 435, film # 0369741, "History of Scituate, Massachusetts", pg. 186, and IGI individual record for Crouch, Patience). No parents are mentioned for her in the Vital Records, but the IGI has her mother listed as "Mary Crouch". There are also no other persons with the surname Crouch listed in any of these birth records for Scituate, but in the separate category for births of "Negroes", there is "Mary, negro, daughter of Meriah, May 4, 1708", which would make her about the right age to be the mother of Patience.

He was born in East Windsor, Connecticut on September 24, 1778. When he was five, his family moved to Orwell, Vermont and later to Ticonderoga, New York.In 1796 at age 18, he started west on foot to work with his friend, Sam Spafford, and Sam's father, Amos, on a surveying job in Cleveland, Ohio. They were delayed in Schenectady having to wait more than a month for a boat to carry them west on Lake Ontario. Too restless to sit around, Oliver hiked as far west as Irondequoit Bay, arriving at the Indian Landing on Irondequoit Creek in March 1796. There, he hunted and fished, and his only human contact was with a family of squatters headed by Asa Dunbar..

31. New York State Freedom Trail Commission Report, <http://www.oce.nysed.gov/freedom%20trail/fttourism2.htm>, Asa DunbarIn 1795 free black Asa Dunbar and his family are among the first pioneers in the Rochester region. When the town fails to prosper, Dunbar, who served the local community as city attorney, eventually moves his family to Canada.Rochester.

32. [history2@rochester.rr.com], Brighton Historian - Mary Jo. Lanphear, Asa Dunbar was a settler on Irondequoit Creek, not Irondequoit Bay, and he was not in the town of Webster. Webster wasn't created until 1840 from the northern part of the town of Penfield. Asa was in the town of Brighton on the west side of the Creek. He was not in the town of Irondequoit, as some sources cite, because that town wasn't formed until 1839. Irondequoit Bay, which leads from Lake Ontario becomes Irondequoit Creek as it narrows and approaches the Irondequoit Landing (also called Gerundegat Landing in early accounts)..

44. George R. Price and James Brewer Stewart, To Heal the Scourge of Prejudice, (Univ. of Massachusetts Press, Amherst), Like so many people with such a multiracial inheritance, James Easton embraced the patriotic cause, seeing in the American Revolution the promise of equal citizenship. He served under George Washington as a fortifications engineer. IN 1780 he left his Wampanoag neighbors, seeking opportunities of capitalism that citizens had always enjoyed but from which indigenous people had been customarily and legislatively excluded. He settled in North Bridgewater (now Brockton, Massachusetts), a town with very few residents of color, married in 1783, and took up the skilled craft of ironworking as his profession. James Easton's wife, Sarah, was the daughter of Sampson Dunbar, a respected citizen of Braintree and later of Stoughton, Massachusetts. In most civil records Sampson Dunbar is referred to as a "mulatto" but in others he receives no racial designation, suggesting that some local clerks possibly regarded him as "white". James and Sarah Easton had seven children between the years of 1786 and 1799; five sons and two daughters. Hosea was the youngest, born 1 September 1798 (SEE FOOTNOTES IN PRICE'S WORK FOR SOURCE MATERIALS).

50. William C. Nell, The Colored Patriots of the American Revolution, (Robert F. Wallcut, Boston, 1855; Reprinted Arno Press/New York Times, New York, 1968), "James Easton, of Bridgewater, was one who participated in the erection of fortifications on Dorchester Heights, under command of Washington, which the next morning so greatly surprised the British then encamped in Boston. Mr. Easton was a manufacturing blacksmith, and his forge and nail factory, where were also made edge tools and anchors, was extensively known for its superiority of workmanship. Much of the iron work for the Tremont Theatre and Boston Marine Railway was executed under his supervision. Mr. Easton was self-educated. When a young man, stipulating for work, he always provided for chance of evening study. He was welcome to the business circles of Boston as a man of strict integrity, and the many who resorted to him for advice in complicated matters styled him "the Black Lawyer." His sons, Caleb, Joshua, Sylvanus, and Hosea, inherited his mechanical genius and mental ability. The family were victims, however, to the spirit of colorphobia, the rampant in New England, and were persecuted even to the dragging out of some of the family from the Orthodox Church, in which, on its enlargement, a porch had been erected, exclusively for colored people. After this disgraceful occurrence, the Eastons left the church. They afterwards purchased a pew in the Baptist church at Stoughton Corner, which excited a great deal of indignation. Not succeeding in their attempt to have the bargain cancelled, the people tarred the pew. The next Sunday, the family carried seats in the wagon. The pew was then pulled down; but the family sat in the aisle. These indignities were continued until the separation of the family."

78. E-mail, Dunkley, Diane [ddunkley@dar.org], Dear Mr. Fleck: The current museum exhibit is based on a book produced by the NSDAR library and genealogy departments, listing minority patriots state by state. The Massachusetts listing includes Joshua Dunbar, black; and Samuel Dunbar, mulatto. Both names are referenced to Massachusetts Soldiers and Sailors of the Revolutionary War, published in Boston 1896-1906 (17 vols.) Joshua was noted as being from Bridgewater & Hingham, and Samuel from Braintree. Both names are included in our exhibition in a section that lists all the names from the DAR book. Unfortunately, we don't have anything else that refers to them. As you can imagine, finding portraits of these patriots was quite difficult, and finding objects connected to a particular person even tougher. Our exhibition will be up through August. I hope you can come and see it. If not, you can purchase a copy of the DAR book African American and American Indian Patriots of the Revolutionary War through our museum shop. I am sending a copy of this e-mail, and yours, to Eric Grundset, DAR Library director and the editor and one of the authors of the book. Diane Dunkley, Director, DAR Museum.

"100 Years of Marriages of Trumbull County 1800-1900" The books were just received by the library late in 1999. One of the Volumes had not even had the binding opened yet. Well even though I knew Noah and Rebecca were probably in there and that I didn't even have to look, I thought that I would take a glance, just to make sure. I couldn't believe my eyes. Right next to the record of their marriage was Rebecca's father's consent. I couldn't believe it. All this time I always said I would believe if I only could find her and her father's name on the same document. Well I believe. "Joel Downs gives consent."** "But if they were in a hurry to leave that may account for why they didn't sell it or sold it for cheap and that would account for why Noah was so poor and was buried in the "poor shepherds ground."** "Also, I have Rebecca being born in NY and also Samuel being born in NY. Do you know where in NY they might have been born? Did I tell you that I made contact with Martha Ann's descendants. Martha Ann was the youngest daughter of Noah and Rebecca Dunbar. They have Martha Ann's husband's journal and it has written all of the other childrens names and birth dates of Noah and Rebecca and als that Rebecca was born in 1803. I dont remember when I made contact with them, if it was before I called you or after I called you."

Married Isabella Montgomery, born 1778 in Ireland, and they were married in Ireland. John died 16 Feb 1833 in Youngston Township, Mahoning County, Ohio; Isabella died 22 March 1821. They had the following children: 1. Joseph McCorkle born 5 April 1797 in Philadelphia, PA. Died 20 March 1868. He married Esther Hatfield, Mary Clevinger and Nancy Rinier Allen. 2. William McCorkle born 26 April 1799 in Philadelphia, PA. Died 8 April 1875. He married Elizabeth Palm 26 April 1825. 3. Margaret McCorkle born 24 Oct 1801 in Trumbull, Ohio Died 12 Sep 1857. She married John Cartwright 4 September 1820. 4. Deborah McCorkle born 24 May 1804 in Philadelphia, PA Died 16 Jul 1870. She married John Scott 24 Feb 1824. 5. Sarah McCorkle born 20 May 1806 in Youngston, Mahoning, Ohio. Died 26 May 1875 in Wells, Indiana. She married James Cartwright 22 Dec 1824 (This is my line of descendency...) 6. Archibald McCorkle born 9 Marcy 1809 in Boardman, Mahoning Ohio. Died 1864. He married Mary Jones 17 Sept. 1840. 7. John McCorkle born 21 July 1811 in Austintown, Mahoning, Ohio. He married Mary Dillon 8. Andrew McCorkle born 4 Aug 1815 in Austintown, Mahoning Ohio. Died 5 May 1889. Married Martha Kelly 16 Sep 1840. 9. James McCorkle born 4 July 1818 in Austintown, Mahoning, Ohio. He married Mary Ann Dunbar 14 Feb 1839. This compiled information was given to me by several different McCorkle Researchers with no discrepancies among them (a miracle in itself...) Most all the above information is documented in the paperwork that was submitted by Leslie McCorkle Ellsworth, (descended through James McCorkle and Mary Ann Dunbar) to the "Pioneer Families of Trumbull County, Ohio" and included land records, wills, death certificates, military records and such. I was given a copy of the ent.

Soon after John and Mary were married, they moved to Cato Township, Manotowac County, Wisconsin. There their first child, Horace Gibson Fenno, was born on May 16, 1855. Mary and John Fenno moved to Greenleaf, Wrightstown Township, Brown County. They had three more children, George, Olive, and Francis (later called Frank). An interesting fact, the land they owned was in Mary's name. Probably this is because she had been widowed once, and is now married to a man somewhat older than she.

They had three more children, George, Olive, and Francis (later called Frank). An interesting fact, the land they owned was in Mary's name. Probably this is because she had been widowed once, and is now married to a man somewhat older than she.

250. E-mail, Bruce Mullendore <bruce@mwt.net> to Suzanne Dunbar [dunbarfamily2@comcast.net], About Joseph and Martha Ann, she went to Madison on June 8, 1875 and was there until she died Dec 3, 1932. She was there 57 years. We know Joseph did go to see her. I do not know if they were divorced or not, but I would hope they were. Where could a record be found on that? She appears on the census with the family, even when she was in Madison, then later, I can't remember right now how long, but some years later, her name no longer appeared with the family. Ellen's marriage to Joseph Rawson is recorded in the Richland Courthouse in Richland Center, WI. I have June 13, 1881. Volume D, page 326. Her death certificate is there too, Volume D, page 9. Ellen was born Nov. 27, 1826 in Kentucky and died May 27, 1893 at Sylvan Township, Richland Co. WI. Ellen was buried at the Felton Cemetery, Richland Co. WI. beside her first husband, Solomon Hall. Solomon was born Jan 14, 1822 and died March 3, 1880. Ellen was the daughter of William B. Owen or Oens and Rachel Poytner. Ellen's parents both were born in Montgomery Co. Kentucky, he in 1805 and she in 1802. Both William and Rachel died at the home of Joseph Rawson at Sylvan. The newspaper spelled the name "Owens" but there is an Oens Cemetery in Richland Co. so probably Oens is correct. I couldn't find where they were buried. They had a son named Edwin too. They were strong Methodists. I'm looking forward to hearing about the Grant Cemetery in IL. Virginia.
